

Tales from the Aletheian Society: Cast

Catherine Ramsay – Clootie

Catherine spends her days trying to teach mathematics to unwilling teenagers, and her evenings trying to squeeze in as much tabletop roleplay as is humanly possible. Her favourite things are beer, drawing and lifting heavy objects.

Chris Edwards – Dr. Hieronymous Cadwallader

Chris has written plot for multiple LARP systems (most notably Profound Decisions and Shadow Factories), but has no real-world achievements of any note, aside from amassing an (arguably) impressive collection of roleplaying books. He lives in continual hope that someday his creative talents will allow him to escape wage slavery and do something he actually enjoys for a living.

Daisy Abbott – Ava O'Hara / The Regent

Daisy loves accordions, LRP, singing, running, and drinking beer. She has used her finely honed skills of ‘staying at home with the kids so Chris can record’ and ‘knowing what #hashtags are’ to further the goals of the Aletheian Society.

Gerard Kurth – Dr. Pritchard / Clootie

Gerard is an amateur stand up comedian, occasional larp writer, gamer, militant film nerd and literally the worst. His role in the cast is shrieking like he stepped on a plug and silly accents. Ger's favourite things are Music, being opinionated about 90's computer games, cooking and the sound of his own voice.

Graeme Jamieson – Gillespie / Robbie

Graeme works for Profound Decisions, where he is a member of the design team for Empire LRP. He spends his time making numbers dance, telling people no and pretending to know what he's talking about.

Henry Sullivan – Lord Arthur Roxburgh

Henry sadly has neither the title nor the money of Lord Arthur but does have the accent at least. This helps him in all sorts of interesting ways in Glasgow, where he lives with his wife, kids and dog. He is the city archivist for Edinburgh and enjoys travel, food and gaming of many varieties.

Jamie Stewart – Dr. Paterson

Jamie has exploded over 5 cars by his mere presence. He poses atmospherically every Christmas and brings a scholarly realism to the good Dr Paterson as he is regularly drunk. He is colloquially known as Jamie The Man due to his house moving skills.

Jude Reid – Jessie Gordon

One of the cast's few actual Glaswegians, Jude creates things to unwind in the gaps between full time work, chasing after her kids and trying to wear out a border collie. She is an avid Zombies! Run fan, a keen student of ITF Tae Kwon Do and drinks a powerful load of coffee.

Lindis Kipp – Lady Sophia Roxburgh

German by birth, Scottish by choice, Lindis is an English teacher and passionate lover of fiction. When she's not recording for the Aletheian society, she is an active member of the Glasgow Madrigals and enjoys Larping.

Paul McKie – Mortimer

Paul is originally from the North of Scotland, but was tempted away by the bright lights of Glasgow in the mid-90s, due to being The Only Gay In The Village. Working as a wage slave for a global corporation, what limited social time he has is well spent slapping biscuits from the mouths of orphans, and the occasional game of cards.

Rhiannon Swann-Price – The Tribune / Cressida Cadwallader

When she's not doing world-class monkey impressions, Rhiannon enjoys conquering hills and arguing about Star Wars.

Ritch Keeling – Godalming

When not assisting esoteric societies, seasoned reality ignorer Ritch spends his time videoing, documenting and talking nonsense over games of Guild Ball.

Simeon Ewing – Banjo

The class, grace and elegance Simeon brings to the part of Banjo is born of a proud Glasgow upbringing. When not at the microphone he makes films happen and has just completed production on Chris Bogle's short film The Rocket Ship. He likes salt and vinegar on his chips.